

Probation and Confirmation Policy

Document ID: HR-POL-PRB-001

Version: 2.0

Effective Date: May 1, 2024

Policy Owner: HR Operations & Employee Success

Classification: Internal / Public (Employees)

1. Purpose and Objective

The purpose of the probationary period is to provide a structured timeframe for both the Company and the newly hired employee to assess mutual suitability. This policy outlines the performance expectations, review mechanisms, and the formal confirmation process required to transition an employee to permanent status.

2. Scope and Applicability

This policy applies to all newly hired full-time and part-time permanent employees globally. Fixed-term contractors, temporary workers, and interns are excluded from this policy, as their tenure is governed by their specific fixed-term contracts.

3. Probationary Period Duration

- Standard Duration: The standard probationary period for all employees up to the Manager level is 90 calendar days (3 months) from the Date of Joining (DOJ).
- Executive Duration: For Director-level and above, the probationary period is 180 calendar days (6 months).
- Benefit Restrictions During Probation: Employees on probation are not eligible for the Global Learning & Development sponsorship, paid Sabbatical Leave, or the Self-Initiated Transfer program. Standard health insurance and accrued privilege leave remain fully active.

4. Performance Review Mechanism

4.1 Mid-Probation Check-In

At the midpoint of the probationary period (Day 45 for standard; Day 90 for executives), the Line Manager must conduct a documented 1:1 review to discuss initial performance, cultural fit, and any areas requiring improvement.

4.2 Final Confirmation Review

At least 14 days prior to the end of the probationary period, the Line Manager must submit the Final Probation Assessment via the HRMS portal. The manager must select one of three outcomes:

1. Confirm Employment: The employee has met or exceeded expectations.
2. Extend Probation: The employee shows potential but requires more time to meet expectations.
3. Terminate Employment: The employee has not met the role's requirements.

5. Extension of Probation

If performance is deemed borderline, the Company reserves the right to extend the probationary period for a maximum of 90 additional days.

- Extensions require a formal, written Performance Improvement Plan (PIP) detailing specific, measurable goals.
- The employee must be notified in writing of the extension and the PIP prior to the expiration of the original probationary period.

6. Termination During Probation

During the probationary period (or any extension thereof), either the employee or the Company may terminate the employment relationship by providing 15 calendar days' written notice (or pay in lieu of notice), without assigning any specific reason, unless dictated otherwise by local statutory labor laws.

7. Formal Confirmation

Upon successful completion of the probationary period, the HR Operations team will issue a formal Confirmation Letter within 7 business days. The employee's status in the HRMS will be updated to "Permanent," unlocking all standard corporate benefits.
